

Dr. James Stanger

Chief Technology Evangelist,
CompTIA

Dr. James Stanger is CompTIA’s Chief Technology Evangelist, and a recognized authority in security, information technology, analytics, and open source. He consults regularly with organizations such as the University of Cambridge, Zscaler, West Point, AstraZeneca, Target, the UK Office for Nuclear Regulation, DBS Bank, NIST, Northrop Grumman, and Dell. An award-winning author, blogger, and educator, his writings for Linux Magazine, O’Reilly Media, McGraw-Hill, and Elsevier have been translated into over a dozen languages. He has helped design global education, certification, and badging programs in topics as diverse as security analytics, Linux administration, web development, kayaking, and British Romantic literature.